1.1 first section

1.1.1 Different kinds of lists

In latex there are three kinds of lists, we'll have a look at all three types. An unordered list in latex is created with the itemize environment:

- First item
- Second item
- Third item

An ordered list in latex is created with the enumerate environment:

1. First item
2. Second item
3. Third item

A definition list in latex is created with the description environment:

First First item

Second Second item

Third Third item

In the next section we'll see the different types of lists can also be nested in different ways.

1.1.2 Nested lists

1. First item

2. First level nested list

   - First item of second level list
   - Second level nested list

     First First item

     second Second item
   - Third item

3. last item in list
